THE HIGH COST OF COUNTY POOR RELIEF

"Where do you go from here?" ingle well be the question asked by tax-payers of Rock county with reference to the burden of caring for those who for one reason or another draw on the public treasury for aid.
The report of the county treasurer for 1923 shows an expenditure of $14,687.40 for outdoor poor relief and the support of persons in state institutions. The 1924 budget adopted by the county board calls for a tax levy of $73,719.73 for the care of public dependents. Included in this levy is an item of $10,000 for outdoor relief. It is said will not be sufficient to cover the aid allowed if orders for the remainder of the year equal those already drawn by the two municipal judges, authorized to grant aid to dependent children.

SOUTH JANESVILLE HOTEL ATTACKED; 50 PANES SMASHED

More than half the windows of the hotel building at South Janesville were broken and the property otherwise damaged over the last week-end.

Reported had it that it was the Ku Klux Klan but circumstantial evidence would have it otherwise—boys with exceedingly accurate throwing stones.

The building was closed as the result of injunction proceedings in the Rock county circuit court and all equipment removed from the once notorious resort. Part of the windows were broken from the inside shattered glass being on the ground and a number of them broken by stones from the outside.

"If it was the Klan, they wore pretty small shoes," declared officers pointing to imprints in the soft ground and muddy trucks on the floor. The tracks were of shoes of juvenile size.

The property is owned by Frank Croak, Janesville.

PRESS PLAN FOR COMPROMISE ON BARRING JAPANESE

plan for compromise of the Japanese exclusion, President Coolidge, today held a series of conferences with congressional lead-

Prior to the meeting of the senator and house conferences on the immigration bill, the president talked again with Senator Reed, republican of Pennsylvania, one of the senate conferees, and Chairman Lodge of the senate foreign relations committee.

All of those acquainted with the proposal put forward by the president after consultation with Senator Hughes continued their silence, but the compromise contemplated alteration of the exclusion provision to make it effective at some future date while it will allow negotiations in the meantime of a diplomatic arrangement with Japan to accomplish similar ends.

No one ventured to say whether such a plan could be put through congress, even if agreed upon by the conferees.

CUBAN GUARD IN UPRISE

Havana—Dissatisfaction, long smoldering in Santa Clara province, outbreaks in the capital and a detachment of the rural guard evaded

Villas. Dispatches published by Hera-out shouting "Down with Zayas!"

Down with Re-election!"

The dispatches were confirmed at the office of the secretary of the interior, where it was said it was feared similar movements might break out in other parts of the country.

Receipt of the news was followed by scenes of intense activity at the palace and the office of the secretary of war and navy.

CUT CARLOAD RATE ON STRAWBERRIES

Reduction Announced from Wisconsin Points; Means Large Saving.

Madison.—Reduction in carload expenses on strawberry shipments from Wisconsin points was announced today by the state department of markets. The reduction was obtained, it was said, through activities of the state department and will mean a saving of thousands of dollars to strawberry growers of the state during the coming season.

With the reduced rates, officials declared a majority of berry shipments from the state should be in express refrigerator cars.

"Past experience has shown that strawberries are too perishable to undertake sending to market by refrigerator car," W. F. Jones, of the traffic division of the state department, said. "It is hoped that the new method of shipping by express refrigerators will place Wisconsin berries on terminal markets in prime condition."

"Wisconsin is fast becoming a factor in the growth of strawberries and the favorable weather from now on, the 1924 crop should reach the 100 car mark."

The three most prominent sections of the state that grow strawberries on a commercial basis are Payfield, Warrens and Sparta. The state department is inaugurating a campaign in Bayfield county to federate the different shipping sections of the state to work together in the promotion of berries originated with headquarters in Payfield.

The Warrens fruit growers association was organized last year and shipped more than thirty cars. The Sparta association has made large shipments for a number of years. All associations report prospects favorable for a large production this year."

The state department also is studying the cold pack process of putting up strawberries. It is said to be the best method.

"ELITE" IS TRADE NAME OF WISCONSIN PEDIGREE SEEDS

Wisconsin's pedigree seeds have made their bow to the fashionable elite.

All the pedigree seed sent out from the Wisconsin Experiment Station will henceforth be known as Elite, according to a ruling of the State Agricultural Experiment association.

Two other grades of pedigree seed have been decided upon by the association. Pedigreed seed is the highest grade of seed produced by the members of the association and must trace back to Elite by registration. The good grades of the pedigree or purebred varieties are to be known as Certified.

"Both the Registered and Certified grades of seed will pass field and pasture sample inspection," announced E. D. Holden, assistant secretary of the experiment association. "Each year an increasing number of purchasers demand inspected seed and every association seed grower is being urged to request field inspection this summer."

Corn field pens, soy beans and the small grain will be affected by the new classification. Alfalfa, clover and timothy are not included, but alfalfa may be certified later.

CATTLE ARRIVING FOR HOLSTEIN SALE HERE ON WEDNESDAY

The first consignment of cattle from the Rock county Holsteins will be here on Wednesday week, to be followed by 100 on Monday by H. A. Brice and Son, Lomira. The bulk of the other consignments were taken to the grounds Tuesday and sale preparations made.

A number from the county attended the Green county sale in Monroe on Wednesday.

While farmers are busy with field work, a well attended sale is predicted.

WISCONSIN SENDING CAR OF HOLSTEINS FOR NATIONAL SALE

Madison, Wis.—Wisconsin will send a carload of purchased Holstein cattle to the National Holstein sale to be held at Birmingham, Ala., in June, according to an announcement made today by L. L. Oldham, secretary of the Holstein-Friesian association of Wisconsin.

Dairy farms that have signified a desire to contribute to the consignment are: Milford Meadow Farms, Lake Mills; Jefferson County Farms, Jefferson; Fobet Farms, Oconomowoc; Holzschke Farms, Dousman; Harid Brothers, Waukesha; Atken Brothers, Waukesha; and Wittig Brothers, Hartland.

DAIRY COW TO HOLD PLACE, SAYS MCNAUL

That the dairy cow will continue to be the leading agricultural animal for the next 10 years is forecast by men looking into the future of Wisconsin farming.

According to P. E. McNaul, economist of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, the dairy business during the next decade fades when it is realized that it requires 250,000 additional cows each year to keep up with the increasing population.

There is also a tendency to increase the per capita consumption of dairy products, says McNaul, and this will require additional to the herds. The extent to which the ordinary consumers will use more milk, butter and cheese depends upon the uniformity in quality and continuity of supply of the product which they may want.

Wisconsin's farm recovery is, primarily to the dairy business, he declared. "Dairying is one of the most stable of farm businesses. The prices of dairy products rose less rapidly during the war, and they have held up better since the war than practically every other farm product except wool and cotton."

A second reason for Wisconsin's trend toward farm recovery is its diversified dairy, hog, poultry, and some cash crops, give a better use of labor and feed than is found on single enterprise farms. Costs are decreased and risks spread. Decreased costs with constant prices makes addition to profits possible."

KEENAN STIRS-UP GRANT COUNTY ON BUYING CRUSHERS

A battery of 18 limestone crushers are fighting Grant county's sour soils.

"Last year we had some trouble in getting limestone crushers or pulverizers to work in our county," says J. B. Keenan, county agent. "But this year we have 18 crushers and operators here in county."

While several crushers have come into Grant county this spring, Keenan says no reason why there should be any need to go outside for a single ton next year. He is urging all farmers who have decided to get a sample tested and have a crusher get on the job at once.

Keenan claims that 20 per cent of the farm lands of Grant county show need for lime.

SEVEN WIS. COUNTIES GROW MOST POTATOES

Three out of every five bushels of potatoes marketed in Wisconsin are produced in a limited area composed of seven counties.

According to H. M. Bakken, of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, these seven counties make up the Wisconsin dairy belt.

The first consists of Waupaca, Winona, and Portage counties; the second, Barron and Chippewa; and the third, Oneida and Langlade. Eventually a fourth district containing the counties of Marathon, Price, and Sawyer, which ship large quantities of potatoes, will be formed. However, until the volume of shipments becomes large enough to justify a separate district organization, the cooperative units of the proposed district can be very well taken care of in the third district.

Bakken explained that the points of origin are not necessarily restricted to the political boundaries of the counties mentioned, but any important landing points may be included in the districts nearest them. Differences in quality, distance from markets, warehouse facilities, and production methods necessitate making a distinction of the potato areas in this way in order to secure unity in organization.

Shipments of potatoes from Wisconsin for the years 1920, 1921, and 1922, averaged 17,661 carloads a year. Since there are approximately 700 dealers in the state each handling an average of 2 carloads, the principal consuming markets for Wisconsin potatoes are Chicago and the important cities of Indiana, Kentucky, Ohio, Illinois, Tennessee, and other states south and eastward.

WALCOWIS FARMS HAS HIGH RECORD COW

Madison, Wis.—Walcowis, in the Wisconsin dairying industry, some 150,000 cows, some of which are purebred, some cross-bred, show production records that set a mark for pure dairy enthusiasts to shoot at, according to L. L. Oldham, secretary of the Holstein-Friesian associations of Wisconsin, who cites the case of Miss Julia Dikkenberg, in charge of Walcowis Farms, Dousman.

Miss Dikkenberg announced that the Holstein cow Walcowis Otto Maud, in the last yearly test, produced 21,222 pounds of milk and 300 pounds of butter in 305 days.

JENSEN ANNOUNCES 8 APPOINTMENTS

Judge Fifield Obliged to Leave Library Board on Account of New Law.

Featured by the resignation of Judge Charles L. Fifield as a member of the public library board after 30 years' service, eight appointments were announced by President J. K. Jensen at the council meeting Monday night and were unanimously confirmed by it.

As members of the city planning commission, Councilman Boyd C. Starr and Otto A. Oestreich were appointed, and City Manager Henry Traxler was named to fill a vacancy. Mr. Jensen announced that F. G. Grant had been prevailed upon to withdraw his resignation as member of that commission and that he will serve another year.

Two New Board Members.

The reappointed members—Councilman C. Starr Atwood as a member of the committee of public works and the appointment of Councilman C. Starr Atwood to succeed A. J. Gibbons were confirmed.

To the board of directors of the public library, two new members were named—City Manager Traxler and Stephen Bolles. They will succeed Judge Fifield and H. H. Blaggart. Miss Elizabeth Patterson was reappointed for another three-year term.

It was felt advisable to make the city manager a member of these two organizations in order that he may keep in touch with their activities. President Jensen announced that at the next meeting he will appoint such standing committees of the council as may be deemed necessary.

Judge Fifield Resigned.

In resigning from the library board after serving 30 years of service, Judge Fifield expressed deep regret but said his action had become imperative in view of a law passed by the last legislature preventing judges in courts of record from holding any other office of public trust. While the judge said he did not believe the purpose of the law was to deprive the people of the service of judges in nonsalaried offices such as the school board, he believed, he said, it was advisable to offer his resignation.

Judge Fifield quoted the new law as follows: "The judge of any court of record in this state shall be ineligible to hold any office of public trust, except a judicial office, during the term for which he was elected or appointed."

President for 10 Years.

City Attorney George G. Cunningham reported that he had seen a recent decision of the attorney general holding that a Milwaukee judge was eligible to serve on a suburban school board under this law. After some discussion in which it was brought out that Judge Fifield was extremely anxious to leave the organization taken effect, it was accepted upon motion of Councilman Palmer:

"I have been honored by being appointed as a member of the library board for nearly 30 years past," stated Judge Fifield in his letter to the council, "and for 10 years of that period, the board honored me by electing me president. I like to feel that my services, especially in fitting the application from the Carnegie Corporation building in Janesville and in erecting the present library building where it now stands, have been of some value to the citizens of Janesville."

"I have always taken a deep interest in the library work, both before we had a public library in Janesville, and ever since the library was turned over to the city, and I assure you that I will always remain interested in the welfare and extension of the library work in Janesville, even though I cease to become a member of the board."

Patriotic Orders Anxious to Get Donation of Piano

Now that the patriotic societies are in their new quarters in the city hall, there are some things needed which the people of Janesville can supply. One of these which the Service Star Legion is looking after is a piano.

If you have a piano, it ought not to be thrown away, or either that you think would bring a lot of pleasure to the many organizations in the club rooms, just send it over to the city hall.

In getting together a service of dishes for "show" the need for more dishes is apparent. The clubs can use all sorts of bakeware of all kinds—cups and saucers and so on.

More than a thousand members of various organizations are concerned in this concentration of patriotic societies and it will take a lot of dishes. Send them over to the city hall.

MAKE FURTHER PLANS MOTHER-SON SUPPER

Definite plans for the community mother-son banquet to be held at the Y. M. C. A. Wednesday night, May 7, were made at a committee meeting Monday. The affair will be under the auspices of the community department in cooperation with the co-operation of representatives of the Parent-Teachers' associations and churches, together with the various boys' clubs of the city. All boys over 11 years of age will be admitted, and some arrangement will be made to furnish "mothers" to those who would otherwise be unable to attend.

A program meeting of the committee will be held on May 5. Tickets will be placed on sale this week. It is probable the speaker of the evening will be Mrs. Irving Maurer, Beloit, who will talk on "The Importance of Home Training."

2 CLAIMS AGAINST CITY DISALLOWED

Flood and Mondschein Petitions Rejected—Injured

Fireman Given $500.

Two claims against the city for damages as a result of falls on icy sidewalks and crossings were disallowed. The city council voted Monday night upon the recommendations of City Attorney Roger G. Cunningham contained in a letter to City Manager Henry Traxler.

The claims upon which the city attorney reported unfavorably were the one filed by Miss Agnes Flood on Feb. 23 through Attorney J. G. McWhorter, and that filed by Stephen J. Mondschein through Attorney Henry J. Wagner.

In the Flood case, Mr. Cunningham pointed out that the law holds there is no liability on the part of the city unless the accumulation of ice and snow causing the accident has existed for more than three weeks. In this case, he said it was over three months and the city could not have existed that length of time and if any action were contemplated it would have to be against the property owner and not the city. Upon motion of Councilman George A. Jacobs, both claims were rejected.

$554 to Blitke

Payment of $554 in lump sum to Venne Blitke, fireman who was hurt in fighting a blaze at the Roedel grocery last July, was authorized by unanimous vote, upon motion of Councilman C. Starr Atwood.

The man, the son of a mother's pensioner, was injured when he was being taken care of by the city. Navigation, he said, had been given him as permanent disability as a result of the accident, and the Industrial commission has held he is entitled to $554. In addition to his salary during the time he was off duty.

Water Main Petition

The council received a petition from property owners asking that a water main be laid on North Union street, but upon the recommendation of the city manager action was deferred until several similar applications for sewer and water can be considered at the same time.

Sign erection permits were granted the Savoy cafe, 31 South Main street; H. L. Nelson, 410 South Milwaukee street; and the Side Alley, 406 West Milwaukee street.

Taxi-hub drivers' license were issued to Joyce Lane, 2114 Mineral Point avenue, and Harry Fry, 526 North Pearl street. George Kappan, 10 South Franklin street, was awarded a tax-hub license. Councilman Bernard M. Palmer submitted a second application for a license to the city, and the first, to the Rockford and the First National bank of Racine on the flimsy condition of R. R. Birdsall & Sons company, Racine, holders of the city's 1923 paving contract. The Birdsall bond furnished by the Southern Surety company was accepted after a short discussion.

What About This Case?

How about the case of the woman, who has within the past three years received $933.06 from the poor master of the northern district, and is the mother of three illegitimate children? She has recently been taken from her by court procedure and turned over to a home-founding society?

How about the six women whose names appear on the poor list year after year and also on the police court records in connection with questionable moral conduct?

How about the cases where two or three generations of the same family live in one county?

Owns a Car

How about those six families that received aid in 1923 but who have a car among possessions in constant use?

How many of the families on the Janesville poormaster's list have received aid during the year from other charitable agencies and what is the value of the aid given?

Subsequent articles will give additional details and throw more light on the whole subject of poverty in Northern district of Rock County.

Oshkosh—About 25 bakery workers in eight of 13 bakeries here went on strike when the employers refused their demand to change over from a six-day to a seven-day work week. 6-Year Old Girl
Struck by Auto

Jane Waldman, 6 years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Waldman, residing east of Janesville, suffered minor bruises to both legs when hit by an automobile driven by Mrs. Sidney Gowdy on a steel crossing in a valley on Main street Monday afternoon. The girl was going from the shop of her father to purchase ice cream at a Main street store, hopping and skipping along as the automobile started out of the alley in the rear of the Main street stores.

It was at first feared that both legs were broken. An x-ray photograph taken at Menard hospital showed no fractures, according to Dr. Charles Sutherland. The injured girl will be released from the hospital Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday. Apparently the wheel of the car did not pass over the child's legs or a more serious accident would have occurred.

Mr. Coolidge and His Platform.

Mr. Coolidge says he wants a short platform. It need not take many words to write it. Here is a sample platform which we submit:

Representatives of a great body of citizens of the United States in national convention assembled hereby assert their faith in Calvin Coolidge as their candidate for president. We believe that as he represents the very best type of American citizenship he will honestly and faithfully perform the duties incumbent upon him in the office of chief executive. Fearless, independent, honest and faithful we believe him to be and with that belief we submit his candidacy to the judgment of the citizens of this American republic.

There are 57,000,000 voters in the United States and while some of them may not be able to read English it is our belief they could all learn to recite this platform before next November.

There never has been a time when a man loomed so tremendously as a candidate as does Calvin Coolidge, and when the party organization itself was so much in the background as now. For that reason all the long paragraphs about every conceivable economic and political phase of the hour, from wheat prices to the Ruhr occupation, so ordinarily considered necessary in a platform of platitudinous verbosity might well be left out in 1924.

The liars, crooks, ex-convicts and indicted ones had a much needed rest Monday when there were no investigations in session at Washington.

The Child Labor Amendment.

Having passed the resolution calling for an amendment to the constitution of the United States providing against child labor, the House has taken the first step. The resolution now goes to the senate. Whatever of position in state power has been lost by such an amendment is to be credited to those states themselves where the violation of the principle of child labor has been most flagrant. The supreme court of the United States in rendering its decision on the federal law was clear in statement that the regulation of child labor was a state matter and such action by the federal government, as was embodied in the child labor law, was an encroachment on the reserved rights of states. That decision was against the centralization of national power, a condition which has become more and more alarming as the years go by. Surely then it was directly up to the states to take up the question and pass such legislation as had been shown to be unconstitutional when passed by the national legislature. But the states refused to act. The southern states have been the worst offenders. It is hoped that the senate will at once take up the resolution and that the legislatures will be given an opportunity to vote on the amendment during the next winter sessions. Some of the southern states hold sessions in the summer months and they, too, could have the amendment before them earlier in the year.

Edgerton bootleggers have made no extra preparations to extend hospitality to the convention meeting there this week.

Al Smith may be the idol of the East Side and the old Bowery district but that is not all of the United States. The greatest problem confronting any president, or for that matter any representative official, is that of the farm. What a man, who has never seen beyond the confused canyons of a city foreign in atmosphere and suspicious of everything west of the Hudson river, do for the farmer?

INTRODUCTION OF PAPER MONEY

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN.

Washington.—Paper currency originally was not issued by governments but by individuals. There is no record of where the system first was tried but it was probably in Europe in the Middle Ages. Rich merchants or great landholders in whom the public had reason to feel confidence would issue promises to pay certain amounts of money, either on a specific date or on demand. Within the territorial radius in which such men were known it was recognized that their promise, written on a slip of paper, was literally as good as gold. For that reason the man who received such a slip of paper could find some other man to whom he owed a debt who would be willing to accept the written promise. Perhaps one of those promises would pass through several hands before finally being redeemed in coin or goods.

At first such issues probably were occasional but in the period of the rise of the great trading merchants—like Signor Antonio in the Merchant of Venice, or Shylock—a regular practice was made of using these notes of hand with which to do business. A great merchant of Venice, of Amsterdam, or of Paris or London, if long established in business and known to be a man of repute, could issue his own notes and they would be accepted wherever he was known in lieu of actual coin. There was no law nor any positive custom regarding the time or place or terms of redemption of these slips of paper, but public confidence was great enough so that one man would take the note of a great merchant in the knowledge that he could pass it along to some one else.

The first banks were started by traders—merchants who often owned ships and warehouses and who bought and sold in the markets of the world. They extended the practice of issuing paper instead of coin and put it on a more scientific basis. Still, however, the government was in no sense behind the issues and the soundness of this paper currency depended upon public confidence in the bankers. There was no governmental regulation and occasionally some bank would fail and the holders of the paper it had issued would lose. This, however, was not usual. The great traders and private bankers sought to play fair with public and stories are told of how some of them had sold family jewels and borrowed from friends and relatives when difficulties developed which impaired the value of the paper they had issued.

The transition from the old private system to the system of government issued paper was slow, particularly in England, and even today there is a quasi-private character to the Bank of England which issues notes.

In the United States, paper currency went through many vicissitudes. There was a good deal of private paper issued by individuals up to and even after the issuance of the first continental currency. Indeed, the personal promises of men like Robert Morris were by many regarded as worth more than those of the continental government. That this belief was well justified proved to be the case for the continental currency finally disappeared as worthless. The expression: "Not worth a continental" refers to the ultimate worthlessness of the early American money.

Many expedients were suggested by various functions and statesmen concerning currency issues in the early days of the republic. The Bank of the United States was an experiment which finally ended in failure. It was a privately controlled bank which had been given a sort of a concession by the federal government but it got into difficulties and was forced out of business.

One early development was that of the state banks. In many states of the union banks were chartered with the privilege of issuing paper money. They were privately controlled although they were presumed to have some measure of governmental supervision. Some of them failed with dismal results to the individuals who happened to hold their paper currency.

American paper money was first put on a solid basis when the national bank act was passed during the Civil war. The greenbacks which were the direct issue of the government, had depreciated and the public had lost confidence in them because there was nothing back of them save the promise of the United States to pay. The United States was engaged in a great civil war and not a few people doubted whether the republic would stand the test. The national bank act provided that any five persons could put up a total capital of $50,000 could start a bank which could enjoy the note-issuing privilege. Such a bank must buy bonds from the federal government and these were required to be held to secure the circulating notes. The act thus provided a circulating currency and also a market for government bonds—a market which was sorely needed at that time. These national banks still are functioning and the national bank note the reader may find in his pocket is one of the issues resulting from this wartime measure.

In 1913 the federal reserve act was passed in response to a demand for greater elasticity in the currency. It is obvious that national bank notes would issue them. The amount outstanding depended upon the number of banks doing business. The notes did not increase and decrease in volume in harmony with the demands of trade. This resulted in a situation where there would be an oversupply of paper money in slack times and a shortage in times of stress. These shortages were fruitful causes of financial panics.

The federal reserve currency is based solely on the needs of business. The national banks and some banks chartered by states are members of the federal reserve system. When business is brisk and there is a demand for credit and currency, manufacturers, traders and other business men discount their personal promises to pay at the banks. These are secured by government bonds or by actual property, such as shoes, grain, or other readily marketable goods. Real estate security is not eligible. The national or state bank may then rediscount these promises with a federal reserve bank and that latter pays out the amount of money called for in federal reserve notes. When the need for the currency is over, the notes are immediately retired and the debt canceled. Every day new notes are being issued to some borrowers while other borrowers are paying back and retiring their loans. Thus there is a constant flexibility maintained so that the supply of currency flows out or is retired in exact harmony with the demands of business. In times of great business activity there are more notes flowing out than return, but when a slack period comes, the notes retire again so there can be no oversupply of currency. The banks which are members of this system must keep at federal reserve banks a supply of gold which constitutes a large part of the security behind the currency notes. Not less than 40 per cent of the security must be gold, the remainder being the goods which secures the notes of the original borrower. Often the demands on federal reserve banks are so light that the notes issued are secured to the extent of 80 or 90 per cent by gold. That has been largely the case in the last year when credit demands have been light. During the post-war boom period the borrowings were so heavy and the demand for currency so great that there was only the legal minimum of forty per cent gold behind the notes.

The Whitewater Register is dissatisfied about the Whitewater postoffice building which the distinguished congressman from this district has been talking about for a dozen years or so. Patience, dear Register; are you not aware that if you got the postoffice building there would be nothing more to promise?

THE TREE.

A tree before my doorway stands
And welcomes me with open hands.I hear it through my window pane
Singing an anthem to the rain,Or lending to a sterner breeze
The ill of marching melodies.And whether skies be dark or fair,
I know that tree is standing there.I sometimes wonder if it knows How swiftly Time's bright river flows?And if it knows that it shall stay Long after I have gone away?I boast my little time of power,
I dance away my merry hour.Grew proud and feel myself secure
And think my conquests shall endure;And yet I know some day the tree
Shall see the gray hearse come for me,Shall greet the sun and feel the rain
And sing outside my window pane,And watch the children at their play, Long after I have gone away—A thousand glories it shall see
In many an age denied to me.

HOROSCOPE

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1924.

Mars in his benefic aspect dominates this day, according to astrology. Mercury and Neptune are adverse.

It is a time to push all constructive and important work, for there will be need of it during the autumn months, the scales do.

Mars gives promise of honors to military officers and benefits to soldiers.

Financial optimism of service in the World War is the prelude indication concerning probabilities and necessary interest in national defense.

Surgeons and physicians are to be exceedingly busy, for the public health will not be satisfactory, especially in many places where there is drought.

The Moon in Aries today is read as rather helpful during hours in which many inimical influences have sway.

All who study occult subjects stress the need of guarding the mind as never before, because of many hideously poisonous thought currents.

The use of narcotics and intoxicants will not decrease, but on the contrary there is likely to be more impudent indifference to the law than formerly.

Sensations involving politicians in the liquor traffic and in the use of money from anti-prohibition sources are prognosticated. One of the sensations will center on the Pacific Coast, if the stars are properly interpreted.

Polly Wickes rose hastily from the corner of the big leather-upholstered Chesterfield, in which her small figure had been tucked away. "Oh, I'm so frightened! I had no idea it was so late. Every one else has been in bed five ages."

"I think," said Locke gravely, "that it is our duty to stand by that last log. It's been a rather jolly life, you know, I—"

"That is the second one you have put on after having made the same remark twice before," she accused him severely.

"I know," said Locke. "I'm guilty—but think of the extenuating circumstances."

Polly Wickes laughed.

"No," she said.

"This is positively the last," pleaded Locke. "There may not be any excuse for a grave fire tomorrow night. Have you thought of that? The wind is still blowing, the rain has stopped and the moon is coming out, and—"

"His tongue was running away with him innately. He stopped short.

"Yes?" inquired Polly Wickes dubiously.

The great dark eyes were laughing again—teasing him.

"Well, confound it," he blurted out, "I don't want you to go! This has been a day and an evening to derive. That would be hypocritical."

"Of course, it would!" There was savage aspersion in Locke's voice. "It's nobody's business but your own."

"Oh, yes, it is," she answered instantly. "It's Miss Marlin's business—if I come here as a guest."

"Yes," said Locke quickly; "but you have told her—and—"

TODAY'S RECIPES

Puff Cheese Omlet—Stir into the six eggs, and the whites of the yolks, even though one has been broken, into a tureen. Mix cream or milk, with salt and pepper to taste; melt one tablespoon of butter in a pan, pour in the mixture; when it bubbles, pour over it the remaining whites of eggs well beaten, sprinkle generously with cheese, and turn it over to the oven, and let it bake a delicate brown. Slip off on a large plate and eat as soon as done.

Cheese Salad—Molten a required amount of cheese with a little mayonnaise or cream; adding one-half cup of chopped nuts and two tablespoons of chopped parsley, turn into little balls and serve in nests of shredded lettuce with a spoonful of mayonnaise in the center.

Macaroni in Cheese Sauce—Blend together three tablespoons flour, three tablespoons butter or vegetable fat, until smooth, add two cups milk and cook three minutes over a low fire. Add one-half teaspoon salt, pepper to taste, two-thirds cup of grated cheese and three cups of cooked macaroni. Let all become hot enough to melt cheese, but do not let same boil after cheese has been added. Serve with a garnish of parsley.

Starched Pudding—Dissolve two tablespoons gelatin in a cupful of cold milk. Put a pint and a half of milk into the double boiler. When it is at the boiling point, stir in the cold milk and dissolved gelatin, stir the mixture until it is thickened, then add two tablespoons of vanilla custard to taste. Remove the mousse from the fire and add two to three eggs, then add a tablespoon of butter. Turn the pudding into a dish to cool. Meanwhile, beat the egg whites with a little powdered sugar until stiff and drop them by spoonfuls onto a lightly buttered baking sheet, cook them a bright brown. In the meantime, add the pudding with a layer of jam and cover the top with the meringue.

YOUR BABY and MINE

BY MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

Mrs. Eldred is happy to advise all mothers on the care of their children of any age, or on any subject which does not belong in the field of the doctor.

Mrs. H. S. L.: I would have been delighted to send you a leaflet, but you neglected to send me either your name, address, and so the stamp did me no good.

The baby has some very good reason for holding his mouth open, I feel sure, as he is too young to be doing it to torment you, perhaps it is still difficult for him to breathe.

I put few drops of liquid phenol in his nose at night. This may make his head feel clearer and he can breathe better. There is a remedy that he might have to inhale. If this continues long have him examined.

Another Mother Interested In Prenatal Influence

Mrs. S. A. writes:

I read with much interest your column every day and your wonderful advice. The paragraph about prenatal influence interested me greatly; I have six babies and they are all healthy and I didn't live in seclusion that she loves him. Boys do not value love that is given too freely whether it is sought or not. Your friend would probably like her better if you kept him in doubt and appeared to care as much for some one else as you did for him. To be honest, however, I would advise you to be careful about the friends you choose and the amount that you run around with boys. If you go too much and in time you will lose your good friend. Probably when the boy gave you the ring he was thinking of you for you, but if he seems indifferent now you may be sure he has lost interest in you and cares for some one else. The more effort you make to gain back his regard, the less he will care for you. Do not seek him in any way. When he decides that you are not pursuing him there is a chance he will return to you.

Thank you for taking the trouble to write me about your interesting experience. One would say offhand that you are too bright for "rights."

Mrs. W. J. writes:

I have a neighbor's little girl over whom I am worried. She has, when she wakes up in the morning, a sort of granulated condition of the eyelid that is like sand, which won't wash off. Her mother doesn't seem to worry about it and it doesn't seem to affect the child's disposition or enjoyment of play. What do you think it is?

Mrs. S. A. writes:

It is hard to say just what it might be, but at the very least the child should be taken to an oculist, who will advise some soothing wash or ointment that will cure it. The condition is not normal.

1. Grooming with a brush is not sensitive for experimenting in the removal of superfluous hair, so the best thing to do is to let it alone. It is probable that it will never become any thicker than now, and there is a probability that it will weaken and gradually disappear.

Cheep creams are not advisable for people who have a tendency to superfluous hair, as they are often made from animal fats instead of the vegetable fats. Take care to make your own creams. I will mail formulas to you on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

A Constant Reader: It is best not to treat the skin, especially for those left from pimples, but to give the complexion good general care and see how much of this trouble will disappear as you effect the restoration.

Your skin has been abused because it has been the medium for keeping your system clear and has had to work to do this. Your health and be most particular about your diet.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been going with a girl for 17 years and for one year, I love this boy very dearly, but he does not seem to believe me. How can I make him believe me?

He says he is not jealous and I believe him. My mother has no fault to find with him. She lets me go with other boys too. I go with a lot of boys every week, but I have a very good name.

How can I win this boy's friend?

There are other girls that he goes with and I am jealous. Do you think he loves me yet? He bought me a wrist watch for my birthday and he paid $32.75 for it. I think he thinks quite a bit of me, don't you?

PRETTY MICKIE: It is very poor judgment for a girl to try to make a boy believe she loves him.

The steve awoke out of a sort of reverie. He looked at Green hard and said:

"What's your name, son?"

"Silvermore Green," said the visitor.

"What?"

"Well," said the old man. "It may rain, it may rain."

"I," said a temperance man, "strongly object to the custom of christening ships with champagne."

"I don't," replied another. "I think there's a temperance lesson in it."

"Looks like rain, sir," said young Green, trying to be sociable.

"Nuthin' of the kind," grunted the old man.

TODAY'S MARKET

GRAIN

Chicago—With month-end evening up of accounts in progress, wheat averaged a little higher in price today during the only marketings. Aside from the usual marketings to May delivery to July or from July to May, trade lacked volume. Uncertainties over the outbreaks to farm reports, and the lack of a point or market price for the chief factor, opening prices, which ranged from 10¢ decline to a like advance, May $1.025 to $1.03, and June $1.04, were followed by slight general advance from buying of May to traders who were short led to a material advance in price for all months. The close was from 94 to 95¢ advance, May $1.035 to $1.037, and June $1.047 to $1.05.

Persistent selling in small lots had a depressing effect, and early May marketings changed to 94¢ lower, May $1.035 to $1.036, the market underwent a sag all around. Later as a result of eastern buying, the market was sharp rally. The close was unsettled, but not lower, to 94¢ net gain, May $1.035 to $1.036.

Scattered liquidation on the part of holders caused down the entire market. This was unmeasured to the high, May $1.035 to $1.036, but declines soon took place.

Measurings of offerings gave firmness to provisions, despite a decline in the hog market.

BAN ON WRITING GIVEN AS REASON FOR RESIGNATION

[By ASSOCIATED PRESS]

PHILADELPHIA.—Vincent Richards, tennis star, has followed the example of William T. Tilden II, and resigned from the American Davis cup team, the national champion announced here Tuesday.

Tilden made the announcement after receiving a telegram from Richards informing him of his action. In the same telegram Richards cancelled his engagement to play in the middle states clay court tournament, now in progress at the Germantown Cricket club here, owing to pressure of business.

United States Lawn Tennis association is responsible for the resignation of Richards, as it was in the case of Tilden.

Tilden said Tuesday that he had not been approached by any offer from Tex Rickard to play professional tennis.

"I have known for some time that a New York man has been waiting to jump in and finance such a movement," the national champion said. "I had not heard Rickard's name used in connection with it until Monday night, but I am not surprised."

RICHARDS IN CONFIRMATION.—
WRITING RULE IS REASON.
[By ASSOCIATED PRESS]

NEW YORK.—Vincent Richards, tennis star, Tuesday confirmed a report that he had resigned from the American Davis cup team. His action, he said, was taken because of the decision of the United States Lawn Tennis association to bar players from writing for newspapers after Jan. 1, 1925.

MELLON TAX RATE PROPOSALS WILL BE COMPROMISED

ADMINISTRATION ADMITS ADOPTION IN TOTO IMPROBABLE.

SENTIMENT FIXED

Politics Wins Over Sound Economics in View of Coming Campaign.

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1924, by the Janesville Gazette—Special Correspondence to the Janesville Gazette.

Washington—As the climax of the tax revision fight approaches in the senate, the administration has become convinced at last that the rates proposed by Secretary Mellon cannot be adopted. Instead the president will have to be content with a compromise between extremes. And as soon as possible he will present the bill to him, for there is no chance of modification even if he should veto the measure. Sentiment in congress has crystallized. It is fixed. No amount of pressure from the administration can alter a situation in which a combination of democrats and insurgent republicans hold the real power.

The senate is about to vote on a series of amendments. Senator Smoot, chairman of the finance committee, is seeking exactly the way the representative budgetary whipleader did in the house. He is endeavoring to get a second vote on the Mellon rates and will not be content to get through that kind of a bill which represents the mean between the two extremes. The democrats and insurgent republicans have combined to support a bill which will tax to a larger income than Mr. Mellon recommended and much lower rates for persons of smaller income are concerned than was originally proposed by the administration.

Politics Wins Out

The discussion of the bonus has had a dexterous effect too. The belief that the bonus would cost a good deal and within an hour afterward his entire cabinet had followed suit.

A government auditor, assigned to check up the accounts of the Squires ministry, reported that in the two months of his incumbency of John T. Squires as liquor controller, under Squires' administration, there was an actual shortage of $100,000.

As the inquiry proceeded it was brought out that Squires' personal business interests became chaotic and that money diverted from government funds was used in an effort to meet his financial losses. His secretary, Miss Jean Miller, told the investigators that Squires instructed her to obtain funds through his brother, James Miller, who was an accountant for the Dominion Steel company, and in case she was unable to obtain money enough from that source she was to go to Meany at the liquor controller's office.

She testified she obtained through her brother $42,000, which bank officials later swore went to Squires' personal account. From Meany she declared she received $25,000, of which $1,000 was repaid.

The steel company's tax agreement with the government had expired in December, 1923, and it was desired to negotiate a new agreement. During negotiations, testimony showed, Squires' financial straits were told to the steel company in New York which responded that they would do whatever thing if they financed him to the extent of about $63,000. The result of this was that representatives of the steel company in the next month applied $16,000 to his credit in various sums to meet personal notes.

Strangely enough, the news of the steel company's bringing about through its falling out between Meany and Squires over the question of appointment.

Squires, denying the charges, is making a strenuous campaign for re-election.

ARREST PREMIER ON GRAFT CHARGE

Head of Newfoundland Government Is Alleged Embezzler.

St. John's, N. F.—Almost on the eve of the election, Sir Richard Squires, former premier of Newfoundland, who is running for re-election, is under arrest on allegations which are shaking the colony.

Charge of misuse of government funds and acceptance of large sums of money from a steel company with which the government was negotiating about ore taxes made against Sir Richard, who was elected premier in 1919 by the largest majority in the history of the country, caused a committee to be formed to investigate the request of the government to investigate. He went to work early in January and only recently completed his task. His verdict was guilty on both charges.

When intimations of the scandal began to seep through the colony last July, R. created a tremendous sensation. Unlike others in Washington, Squires resigned almost immediately

SOVIET PUTS UP IMMIGRATION BARS

Three of the five youths arrested on a charge of breaking into the Jackson school on Eastern avenue last Friday night have been ordered to appear for trial in the state court on May 12. The case against the other two was dismissed yesterday by Judge H. L. Maxfield when it was shown that they did not enter the building. The junior, Robert Krammer, found only two in the school when he returned unexpectedly after breaking up the building after the close of the school day, was given the Jackson Parent Teachers association. It is believed that the lads were searching for pop and other refreshments. They entered through a window.

Three Youths Are Freed by Court

The soviet, issuing the decree, says it is especially directed against emigrants from America, who come to Russia expecting to be rewarded with responsible posts for unprofitable revolutionary activities in America. Let these alleged revolutionaries remain in America and create responsible posts for themselves."

A Ban on All Immigrants

The published decree of the soviet states that while special permission to enter Russia has been given a group of emigrants from America, it is responsible in a decision of the international commerce commission, announced at Washington, D. C., Monday. The Jamesville Sand and Gravel company shipped some 200 carloads to Whitton during that time but was unaware any appeal on the rates had been made to the commission. It is proposed that the commission should be given the power to decide whether the contractor getting the gravel, as it was shipped to a. b. Jamesville. Reparation was ordered paid shippers for the four months' period, but no rate was set for the future, because it was indicated no further shipments to Whitton would originate at Jamesville.

Enough lads are waiting in line to fill the quota under the new law this year, while Poland and Hungary are admitted to have thousands more who also are prepared to enter the international steamship race to Ellis Island in June. It is doubtful whether these even will embark on the ships, since many have established winter colonies in English, German and French ports, consisting of immigrants who failed to make the quota last year.

Fares Must Be Returned

The new bill puts a terrible crimp in all the steamship companies, since hundreds of thousands of prepaid passengers must be returned to American relatives of would-be immigrants.

The total amount of prepaid passages to Poland, Lithuania, Russia, Latvia alone is more than $10,000,000, while it is believed here that the Italian, Greek, Rumanian, Armenian and other southeastern European countries were added this amount would be doubled.

Among the lines which must repay the hundreds of thousands of American emigrants are the White Star,
